Inclusive Development

Is both an objective
... and a process

Development

Social Exclusion

- A process: certain groups are systematically disadvantaged
- Discrimination: ethnicity, race, religion, sexual orientation, caste, descent, gender, age, disability, HIV status, migrant status or where they live.
- Discrimination: occurring at public institutions, legal system or education and health services as well as social institutions like household.
(DFID, 2005)

Forms of Social Inclusion/Exclusion

- Class based
- Caste and ethnicity based
- Gender based
- Language based
- Religion based
- Area based
- Age based
- ...

Social Inclusion

- Removal of institutional barriers to increase access to development opportunities (WB, 2002)
- A means to shift the relationships between people and the institutions that shape the opportunity structure [of their social, political and economic world (Unequal citizens, WB & DFID)]
- social inclusion is about participation especially of the most disadvantaged people who are left out from the main stream of development and in the governance process

What is Inclusive Development?

“Inclusive development is a pro-poor approach that equally values and incorporates the contributions of all stakeholders - including marginalized groups-in addressing development issues. It promotes transparency and accountability, and enhances development cooperation outcomes through collaboration between civil society, governments and private sector actors.”

https://www.oxfam.org/sites/www.oxfam.org/files/inclusive_development.pdf

- Inclusive development consists of ensuring that all marginalized and excluded groups are stakeholders in development processes.

Inclusive Development (ID)

- It recognizes diversity as a fundamental aspect in the process of socio-economic and human development,
- claims a contribution by each human being to the development process rather than implementing isolated policies and actions
- promotes an integrated strategy benefiting persons and society as a whole.
- It is an effective tool for overcoming social exclusion, combating poverty and ensuring social and economic sustainability.

Inclusive Development

- Development can be inclusive - and reduce poverty - only if all groups of people contribute to creating opportunities, share the benefits of development and participate in decision-making
- The goal of inclusive development is to achieve/realize an inclusive society, able to adopt differences and to value diversity
